“Series ‘Me, Bird and Music’ No.4 ‘Aged 19, Ryoko’s House’” (Yamashita Kikuji(1919-1986), 1974)

This work was based on Pablo Picasso’s print “Minotauromakia” (1935), which illustrated allegorically the resistance to fascism. This is said indicating Yamashita’s memory when drafted to the Imperial Army.

Abe Administration’s Deceit

Opposition to the new base construction at Henoko has been clearly shown in Okinawa gubernatorial election. The commercial newspapers carried headlines over the election of House of Representatives.

From inauguration of the Abe administration, the “mission” of this regime was clear. It has been clearly analyzed by Prof. Kamakura Takao in the November 1 issue of this paper (Shiso-Undo semi-monthly). It is for a handful of the financial capital playing a leading role and strengthening international competitiveness of Japanese capital, to realize maximizing its profit. How can they achieve it? It is by attacks on the basic labor rights, tax reform, monetary policy, and by cutting down the social security and welfare. Then, they are trying to secure it by showing “threat or use of force” against home and abroad.
