We resist against construction of the Takae Helipad! Let us defer delivery of sand and soil for even one second! After the two front rows of sit-in protesters were pulled out by the riot police, the police stand and defend the road for dump trucks passing. The protesters stay sit-in for protest in front of the entrance. (October 11, 2016, photo by TANUMA Hisao)

Recognition of History questioned right after the Election of the House of Councilors

Thinking about the path of the Japanese people and the world in the age of turbulence

Trend of the Japanese ruling class as seen in the opinions of mass media

Some of the editorials and commentaries by the desks of politics after the election of the House of Councilors of July 10 claim a nuance, "Two-thirds achieved, but do not step into the constitutional amendment in a hurry. Review the draft amendment by the Liberal Democratic Party (published in 2012)." Of course, they are on the premise that the amendment is necessary in the view of the "changing period of time" and "changes in the security environment." However, there we can see through the respective company's recognition of the status quo and their wishes. Here are some examples. Know your enemy and know yourself, one can go through hundred battles without danger (The Art of War by Sun Wu).
